Megan Davidson Crewmember

- Age: 21
- Years RNLI Service: 4
- Profession: Law Student at University of Glasgow
- Work place: Part-time barmaid in Kinghorn
- Family: In a relationship
- Other Interests: Going to the gym and socialising with friends.
- Why do I volunteer? I joined the RNLI as soon as I turned 17 as it is something I have always been interested in. When I first joined I was still at school and had some concerns about managing my time efficiently upon going to university, however despite being a huge commitment, I have found it a great deal easier than I initially thought.

When I joined the RNLI I had no prior maritime experience whatsoever but this has never been an issue as the training crewmembers receive is second to none. The RNLI often provides training courses both at the station in Kinghorn and elsewhere, which has allowed me to gain a number of skills and experience in areas ranging from First Aid to operating Radar efficiently.

Overall, being a crewmember has allowed me to become a more confident individual and it is extremely rewarding. It is a big commitment but the skills and experience gained have benefited me in all aspects of my life.
