

Kinghorn Lifeboat Station

Crew Profile

Steven Wallace

Crewmember

Age: 25

Years RNLi Service: 6

Profession: Salesman

Work place: Kinghorn

Family: Engaged with one child

Other Interests: I enjoy photography in my spare time along with socialising with friends.

Why do I volunteer? I grew up in Kinghorn and was always aware of the lifeboat station but never really knew what it involved or how to join until I got talking to an existing crew member at work. After a conversation which involved me bombarding him with questions for 20 minutes I decided I was going to go down to the boathouse to meet the crew and have been on the crew ever since.

I started off on the Launch Crew for the first year and a half as going out on the lifeboat never really appealed to me. I then joined the boat crew and have never had one regret about it to this day.

I volunteer for the RNLi because it's a very rewarding organisation to volunteer for, from the satisfaction of being able to say I made a difference each time you go out for a shout, whether that be saving someone's life or returning a boat that's slipped its mooring to its worried owner to the training which is always ongoing and done to the highest standard.